PRICE THREE CENTS

CITY IS LOSING SAYS HECK

Inspector Declares Costs Must Be Assessed in Court

JACKSON MAKES STATEMENT

Fines Cover Expenses in Criminal
Court, He Says

That the city of Lima is losing revenue at the rate of $2,500 annually as a result of failure to assess costs in the Criminal Court, is the statement made by Inspector W. E. Heck of the state auditor's department who is now going over the city's accounts. Heck says the law providing for collection of costs for services of the judge of the Criminal Court, the chief of police makes it mandatory that these collections be made and turned in to the city treasury.

The inspector said that while there is no penalty for neglecting to carry out the provisions of the law, which has been in effect since May 20, court officials will be expected to make arrangements to assess costs on all cases in Criminal Court in the future. Using the number of cases the court has handled in the past as a basis on which to calculate, Heck said the additional revenue in a year's time would be between $2,500 and $3,000.

JACKSON DEFENDS ACTION

Judge Emmott Jackson of the Criminal Court when interviewed Thursday, said when he returned to the office on January 1, the court was under instructions from the auditor's department that no costs were to be assessed, as the Criminal Court is a paid office and does not depend on costs to support it as in the case of justice's of the peace. He said a copy of the new law has only recently been received and that no instructions countermanding those prohibiting the collection of costs have been given.

"The city has not been losing revenue by failure of the court to collect costs," said the judge. "An inspection of the books" he continued, "will show that in my previous occupation of this office, when fees were assessed, the fines were much lower than they have been since I returned on January 1. For example, a speeder was only fined $5 and costs brought the total up to $8.60. Now the invariable rule is a $10 fine for speeders."

City Clerk James I. Heffner said Friday the return to the practice of assessing fees will necessitate the purchase of an entire new set of books. He said the city at present has no funds for that purpose.

BUILDINGS SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE

City of Los Angeles is Rocked
By Violent Shock

LOS ANGELES—Buildings in Los Angeles were rocked violently at 10:11 a. m. Friday by an earthquake shock.

The quake appeared to be one single violent shock followed by less violent tremors. People rushed to the streets from offices and stores, but in the downtown district apparently there was no real panic.

It was feared that considerable damage had been done.

Reports to the UNITED PRESS from Pasadena, about 10 miles north-east of Los Angeles, were that the quake was felt slightly there. It was not felt in San Diego and Riverside.

At 10:40 reports to the police failed to reveal serious damage.

One man was injured by broken glass which fell from a window beneath which he was standing.

Rocks in quantities rolled down the First-st. hill almost into the heart of the business district.

FREIGHT LOOT IS $500,000

Theft Conspiracy Uncovered in Cleveland District

CLEVELAND—(By United Press)—Loot estimated at more than a half million dollars has been stolen from freight cars in and around Cleveland during the past six months, railroad detectives and police Friday estimated.

An extensive round-up of suspects is being planned. Several arrests have already been made.

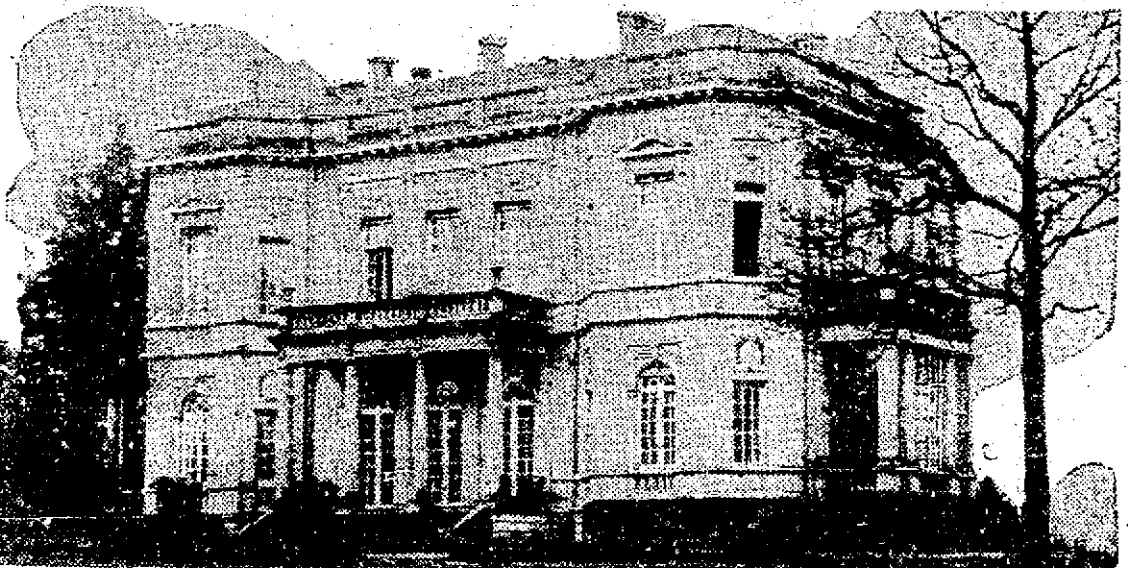

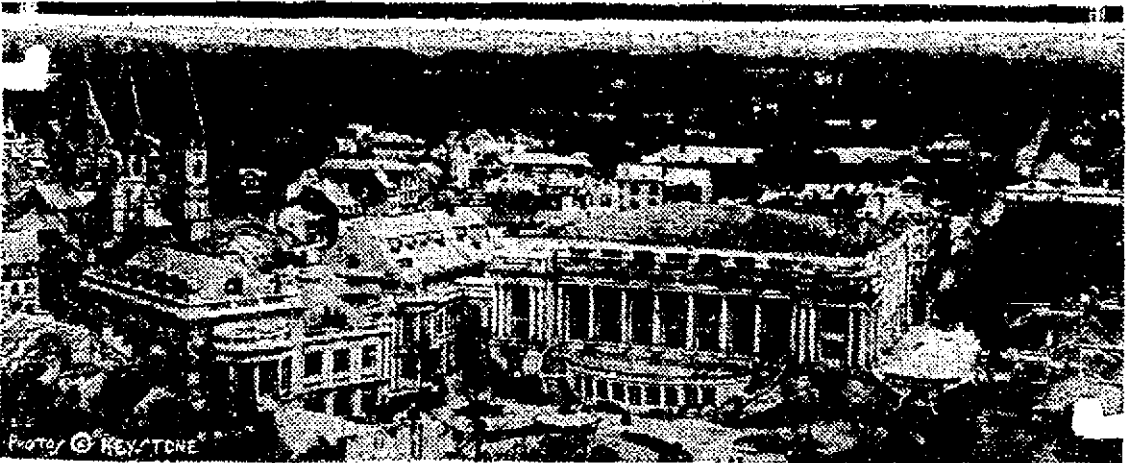

A wounded man was under arrest Friday in connection with the murder of Thomas Cook, New York Central detective. He was shot down when he attempted to arrest two freight car thieves.

Police believe that a gang of specialists in freight car thieving is responsible. Chief John Billington, of the Big Four Railroad police said the men were using scores of stolen automobiles for the purpose of hauling the stolen merchandise to points in Ohio and out of the state.

Woman Tells Conflicting Stories
About the Killing

NEW YORK—(By United Press)—Miss Loretta Leroy, a cabaret singer, with her chauffeur and another man, were held for questioning Thursday in the investigation into the murder of an unknown man.

Miss Leroy drove to Bellevue Hospital at 2 a. m. with the man's body in her automobile. At first she said she was driving thru the street and saw the man lying on the sidewalk dying. After several hours' questioning, however, she said she was dining in a restaurant with the man who she knew only as "Mike" when some one told her he was wanted outside.

A few minutes later, he excused himself and went outside. A minute later Miss Leroy said she heard a shot, ran out the door and found the man wounded. With the aid of her chauffeur, Wilson Jackson and Pasquale Dinare, she placed the body in the automobile.

Police found two loaded shotguns in a stairway near where Miss Leroy said the stranger was shot. One gun appeared to have been discharged and reloaded.

The man was struck by five shots, entering near his heart. His hat was pierced by the shots, indicating he held his hat over his heart when the shots were fired.

Miss Leroy told police she met "Mike" five days ago at Atlantic City and had dined with him several times since.

HOME PROTECTIVE LEAGUE WILL QUERY OHIO ASSEMBLY CANDIDATES ON TAXATION

COLUMBUS—Every candidate for the state general assembly will be questioned by the Home Protective League which will support only those pledged to a "square deal in taxation," it was announced today. The league, it is stated, is made up of farmers, laboring men, business men and other interests. On its list of officers appear names of state grange officials and business men.

Included in questions to be put to candidates, according to the announcement, are queries relating to "tax limitations on real estate, not to exceed limitations of the Smith law," a debt limit for all taxing districts; budget system for all tax districts; and exceeding of tax limits only by a vote of a majority of electors.

Entire Police Force on Trial of Bevy of Maidens

HULL, Mass.—The entire police force Friday was on the trail of a bevy of maidens who take their plunges in Whitman's pond after dark, clad in silken pajamas, gauzy nighties and bits of lingerie.

Indignant women, who complained to the police force, told him the garments "were entirely inadequate" when the girls were silhouetted against the moon.

When last interviewed, the police force was on his way to Whitman's pond to be sure to be there in time to verify the charges Friday night.

KENT NORMAL HIT BY BLISS

State Examiner Charges Illegal
Use of School's Funds

COLUMBUS—(By Associated Press)—Illegal expenditure of funds, loose management of administration affairs and lack of co-operation among members of the institution are charged on a report filed against the Kent State Normal School after an extensive examination by State Examiner John A. Bliss. The report, made public by State Auditor A. V. Donahey, recommends a reorganization of the institution.

Financial affairs of the school are those most prominent in the report. It is charged that $6,000, the salary of the dean of the school, had been illegally expended following the official abolishment of that position; that $1,895 had been expended illegally from the students' fund and $5,563 from the dormitory fund.

President J. E. McGilvery of the school, in answer to the charge of the expenditure of $6,000, supposedly the salary of the dean, stated that the money had been expended with the full knowledge of the trustees.

Among a number of charges relative to the mismanagement of the school and its administrative affairs, the examiner's report declared that without authority the name of the institution had been changed from "Kent State Normal School" to "Kent State Normal College" by the trustees.

Faculty members and the president are also charged with failure to co-operate, in the report.

HARDING FEARING INDEPENDENTS

G. O. P. Alarmed by Cox's
Strength With Progressives

MARION, Ohio—(By United Press)—The strongest possible appeal to progressive voters consistent with his past record will feature the speech of Warren G. Harding accepting the Republican presidential nomination, it was stated authoritatively here.

He is preparing to espouse progressive issues and contrary to the apparently general impression in some quarters, he will not stand as a reactionary or extreme conservative, according to his close advisers here.

NEW ALLIED THREAT

6.—The allied governments are ready to grant Germany, during the six months' period, an advance payment amounting to the difference between the price paid according to Article 2 of this document and the export price of o. b. German ports and the English export price of o. b. English ports. In such case the lower price shall prevail. This advance will not be made condition on questions of priority. All other allied claims will be made at the end of each month, according to the number of tons delivered and in accordance with the price of world coal during that period. At the end of the first month, such advances will be granted without awaiting exact figures.

7.—If, up to November 20, it should be established that the August, September and October deliveries have failed to total 6,000,000 tons, the allies will proceed to occupy new parts of Germany; that is, the Ruhr, or any other district.

DEMOCRATS ACTIVE

Democratic spokesmen have been active during the silence of Senator Harding, in seeking to create the impression that Harding is a reactionary. Governor Cox, in formal statements, has flatly referred to the Republican candidate as a "reactionary" dominated by the "senate oligarchy."

Meanwhile, however, Harding has been studying his political chessboard and his reply is expected to appear with the delivery of his acceptance address next Thursday.

FINAL PARLEY AT SPA IS ON

Counter-Coal Proposals Rejected by the Allies

TEUTONS EXPECTED TO YIELD

Entente Stands by the 2,000,
000 Ton Ultimatum

SPA, Belgium—(By United Press)—Having exhausted every diplomatic recourse in an effort to obtain a reduction in the amount of coal demanded by the allies, the German delegation is expected to accept the ultimatum requiring delivery of 2,000,000 tons monthly, when the conference reconvened at the Villa Fainneuse Friday. The equivocal acceptance presented by the Germans was considered by allied representatives at private meetings and a reply formulated which called for the final German decision at 11 a. m. Friday.

Germany must deliver a total of 6,000,000 tons of coal to the allies by October, under penalty of having allied troops occupy the Ruhr or any other district, the latest allied note set forth.

REPLY TO GERMANS

Following is the allied reply to the Germans' qualified acceptance of the coal demands:

1.—The German government will begin August 1, delivering 2,000,000 tons of coal monthly for a period of six months.

2.—The value of this coal will be credited against the German reparations obligation at the German market price. A premium of five gold marks per ton will be allowed on certain classes and quantities of coal. This premium will be paid in cash to be used for purchasing foodstuffs for German miners.

3.—During the next six months the measures of coal provided in the agreement drawn up July 11, will be applied, as shown in an annex to this document.

4.—In the near future an agreement shall be made regarding distribution of Upper Silesian coal by a mixed German-Allied commission.

5.—As soon as possible a commission will be established at Essen, on which Germany will be represented to provide a standard of living for miners in regard to food and clothing, with a view to improving coal production.

6.—The allied governments are ready to grant Germany, during the six months' period, an advance payment amounting to the difference between the price paid according to Article 2 of this document and the export price of o. b. German ports and the English export price of o. b. English ports. In such case the lower price shall prevail. This advance will not be made condition on questions of priority. All other allied claims will be made at the end of each month, according to the number of tons delivered and in accordance with the price of world coal during that period. At the end of the first month, such advances will be granted without awaiting exact figures.

7.—If, up to November 20, it should be established that the August, September and October deliveries have failed to total 6,000,000 tons, the allies will proceed to occupy new parts of Germany; that is, the Ruhr, or any other district.

READY FOR INVASION

The annex to this allied reply provided for a standing commission of the reparations commission to sit at Berlin and supervise all coal operations in Germany.

In event the Germans should refuse to meet the terms of this ultimatum the allies have completed military preparations for occupying German territory.

GERMAN REPLY DELAYED

SPA, BELGIUM—(By Associated Press)—The German delegation at the conference here sent word to the supreme council Friday morning that the German reply to the allied ultimatum on coal deliveries would not be ready before 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. The Germans are expected to ask modification of the terms of the protocol.

The reply was due at 11 o'clock Friday morning.

From what could be learned during the morning, the thing that was standing in the way of acceptance by the Germans of the allied terms was the clause providing for occupation of the Ruhr Valley unless the coal deliveries were made.

COX HITS ON PLAN TO CUT PRICES

Advocates Repeal of the Excess
Profits Taxes

FLAT LEVY IS HIS REMEDY

Would Greatly Lower Cost of Living, Nominee Says

COLUMBUS—(By United Press).—Repeal of the present graduated excess profits taxes as a means of reducing the cost of living will be advocated by the Democratic nominee during the campaign, Governor Cox stated Friday.

In place of these levies, Cox would substitute a flat tax of from one and one-half percent on the volume of business done by all business concerns. Virtually the same change has been recommended by President Wilson, Secretary of the Treasury Houston and his former assistant, R. C. Leffingwell.

PRESENT PLAN A BOOSTER

Cox believes that his proposed tax would raise from $1,600,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 annually. He is of the belief that the present graduated levies greatly pyramid the cost of all necessities and probably will deal at length on the subject of taxation in his speech of acceptance.

Asked for his views on taxation, Cox referred to several recent speeches and authorized their quotation as his present position.

"Prices are high and will remain so until we seriously dedicate our efforts to the wiping away of things that came with the war," he said. "A considerable factor in the high cost of living is the continuance of the excess profits tax. In establishing a selling price, every business sets aside a reasonable profit and then adds to it the amount of the tax. This is done by the manufacturer, the jobber and the retailer, until the inevitable result is a staggering cost to the consumer."

"A flat tax of one or one and one-half percent on the volume of business done by any concern would be a simple matter to collect and it would be neither a burden nor a relief for excess prices. It would raise nearly half the amount of government revenue necessary and allow a speedy repeal of the excess profits taxes."

Friday Cox will meet a large delegation of suffrage leaders, led by Miss Alice Paul, head of the National Woman's party. He has indicated that because of his strong personal suffrage beliefs he will give the women assurances of energetic efforts to make Tennessee or North Carolina the 36th state to ratify the suffrage amendment.

FARMER'S COWS FOUND "BEASTLY" DRUNK

DURHAM, N. C.—John King, a farmer living near this city, Thursday night found two of his cows lying on the ground of the pasture in a stupor, apparently suffering from some strange malady. A veterinarian was called and after lengthy examination, pronounced both animals as merely "beastly" drunk. A search for the cause led to the discovery of a big "moonshine" still in a secluded corner of the pasture. The cows had eaten a quantity of the mash used by illicit whiskey manufacturers.

NO ARMISTICE REPLY. SPA, Belgium—British officials here denied Friday morning that any reply had been received from the Russian soviet government relative to the British proposal for an armistice between Russia and Poland.

WARSAW—Polish governmental authorities have agreed with the Lithuanians for the occupation of Vilna by Lithuanian troops and this step will soon be taken, according to information received in military quarters.

The surrender of Vilna to the Lithuanians was conceded by the soviet government of Russia some time ago in negotiations between the two countries.

BERNE—The Russian Bolshevik offensive in the Ukraine, has come to a standstill, according to advances from Bucharest, which declare the counter offensive in the Ukrainian forces in making progress. The Ukrainian armies are being backed up by growing forces of volunteers forming in the rear of the Bolsheviks, and aided by the extensive uprising of peasants.

WASHINGTON—(By United Press).—Washington Democrats Friday were preparing to give Governor Cox a warm welcome when he arrives here shortly after 1 p. m. Saturday to confer with President Wilson.

Headed by John Costello, Democratic national committeeman from the District of Columbia, party workers have arranged for several thousand persons to be at the station. A military band will be on hand and the newly formed Cox-Roosevelt Club expects to have its entire membership out.

Cox will go from the train to the home of Judge T. T. Ansberry, former member of congress and a personal friend of Cox.

While Ansberry and other Democrats here insist they have arranged no conference for Cox outside the one at the White House, it is probable that he will see Representative Flood, of Virginia, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, for a discussion of the Democratic congressional campaign. Flood wishes to coordinate the presidential and congressional campaigns as closely as possible.

CHICAGO—(By United Press).—The United States railroad labor board will announce its award on demands of 2,000,000 railroad workers for an annual billion dollar wage increase at 11:30 next Tuesday morning, G. G. Bangor, board member, announced Friday.

The railroads, it was learned, have practically agreed on the increases to be awarded and believe they will be accepted by the employees.

The announcement of the award will be made in conformity with the statement of the board several weeks ago that it would render its decision on or before July 20. The announcement then was to avert a threatened general strike.

Railroad labor chiefs will gather here Monday to be on hand when the award is announced, so they can decide immediately whether it is satisfactory.

He is preparing to espouse progressive issues and contrary to the apparently general impression in some quarters, he will not stand as a reactionary or extreme conservative, according to his close advisers here.

Whatever the original plans of Harding and his party advisers, the nomination of Governor Cox and the activity of the third party groups at Chicago, have led to a decision to play up the progressive vote of the nation in the most active manner.

Harding and his counselors realize that the rank and file of the Republican party will naturally support the ticket; but the tremendous growth of the independent vote augmented by the vast number of women voters who will go to the polls next November without party ties of any kind, places the balance of power in the coming election in the hands of this large doubtful group.

Harding, like Cox, will make a determined effort to get his share of it.

SPA, Belgium—(By United Press)—Having exhausted every diplomatic recourse in an effort to obtain a reduction in the amount of coal demanded by the allies, the German delegation is expected to accept the ultimatum requiring delivery of 2,000,000 tons monthly when the conference reconvened at the Villa Francine Friday. The equivocal acceptance presented by the Germans was considered by allied representatives at private meetings and a reply formulated which called for the final German decision at 11 a. m. Friday.

Germany must deliver a total of 6,000,000 tons of coal to the allies by October, under penalty of having allied troops occupy the Ruhr or any other district, the latest allied note set forth.

2.—The value of this coal will be credited against the German reparations obligation at the German market price. A premium of five gold marks per ton will be allowed on certain classes and quantities of coal. This premium will be paid in cash to be used for purchasing foodstuffs for German miners.

5.—As soon as possible a commission will be established at Essen, in which Germany will be represented by a qualified expert in coal production, with a view to improving coal production.

6.—The allied governments are ready to grant Germany, during the six months' period, an advance payment amounting to the difference between the price paid according to Article 2 of this document and the export price of German ports and the English export price of a b. English harbor. In each case the lower price shall prevail. This advance will not be made condition on questions of priority. All other allied claims will be made at the end of each month, according to the number of tons delivered and in accordance with the price of world coal during that period.

At the end of the first month, such advances will be granted without awaiting exact figures.

7.—If up to November 20, it should be established that the August, September and October deliveries have failed to total 6,000,000 tons, the allies will proceed to occupy new parts of Germany; that is, the Ruhr, or any other district.

READY FOR INVASION The annex to this allied reply provided for a standing commission of the reparations commission to sit at Berlin and supervise all coal operations in Germany.

In event the Germans should refuse to meet the terms of this ultimatum the allies have completed military preparations for occupying German territory.

GERMAN REPLY DELAYED SPA, BELGIUM—(By Associated Press)—The German delegation at the conference here sent word to the supreme council Friday morning that the German reply to the allied ultimatum on coal deliveries would not be ready before 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. The Germans are expected to ask modification of the terms of the protocol.

The reply was due at 11 o'clock Friday morning.

From what could be learned during the morning, the thing that was standing in the way of acceptance by the Germans of the allied terms was the clause providing for occupation of the Ruhr Valley unless the coal de-

FARMER'S COWS FOUND "BEASTLY" DRUNK

DURHAM, N. C.—John King, a farmer living near this city, Thursday night found two of his cows lying on the ground of the pasture in a stupor, apparently suffering from some strange malady. A veterinarian was called and after lengthy examination, pronounced both animals as merely "beastly" drunk. A search for the cause led to the discovery of a big "moonshine" still in a secluded corner of the pasture. The cows had eaten a quantity of the mash used by illicit whiskey manufacturers.

COX HITS ON PLAN TO CUT PRICES

Advocates Repeal of the Excess Profits Taxes

FLAT LEVY IS HIS REMEDY

Would Greatly Lower Cost of Living, Nominee Says

COLUMBUS—(By United Press.)—Repeal of the present graduated excess profits taxes as a means of reducing the cost of living will be advocated by the Democratic nominee during the campaign, Governor Cox stated Friday.

In place of these levies, Cox would substitute a flat tax of from one and one-half percent on the volume of business done by all business concerns. Virtually the same change has been recommended by President Wilson, Secretary of the Treasury Houston and his former assistant, R. C. Leffingwell.

PRESENT PLAN A BOOSTER Cox believes that his proposed tax would raise from $1,600,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 annually. He is of the belief that the present graduated levies greatly pyramid the cost of all necessities and probably will do at length on the subject of taxation in his speech of acceptance.

Asked for his views on taxation, Cox referred to several recent speeches and authorized their quotation as his present position.

"Prices are high and will remain so until we seriously dedicate our efforts to the wiping away of things that come with the war," he said. "A considerable factor in the high cost of living, is the continuance of the excess profits tax. In establishing a selling price, every business sets aside a reasonable profit, and then adds to it the amount of the tax. This is done by the manufacturer, the jobber and the retailer, until the inevitable result is a staggering cost to the consumer."

REMEDY SUGGESTED A flat tax of one or one and one-half percent on the volume of business done by any concern would be a simple matter to collect and it would be neither cause nor alibi for excess prices. It would raise nearly half the amount of government revenue necessary and allow a speedy repeal of the excess profits taxes.

Friday Cox will meet a large delegation of suffrage leaders, led by Miss Alice Paul, head of the National Woman's Party. He has indicated that because of his strong personal suffrage beliefs he will give the women assurances of energetic efforts to make Tennessee or North Carolina the 36th state to ratify the suffrage amendment.

WASHINGTON DEMOCRATS PREPARE Demonstration for Leader

WASHINGTON—(By United Press.)—Washington Democrats Friday were preparing to give Governor Cox a warm welcome when he arrives here shortly after 1 p. m. Saturday to confer with President Wilson.

Headed by John Costello, Democratic national committeeman from the District of Columbia, party workers have arranged for several thousand persons to be at the station. A military band will be on hand and the newly formed Cox-Roosevelt Club expects to have its entire membership out.

Cox will go from the train to the home of Judge T. T. Ansberry, former member of congress and a personal friend of Cox.

While Ansberry and other Democrats here insist they have arranged no conferences for Cox outside the one at the White House it is probable that he will see Representative Flood, of Virginia, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, for a discussion of the Democratic congressional campaign. Flood wishes to co-ordinate the presidential and congressional campaigns as closely as possible.

MAN HELD ON CHARGE OF $80,000 FORGERIES

ST. MARYS—Charged with forgery aggregating more than $80,000, William Danzing, 32, of St. Marys, was arrested by Sheriff C. L. Hinton in Lima.

Danzing is said to have been floated by Danzing in Ft. Loramie, New Bremen, Minster, Osgood and Sidney. Unable to furnish bond in the sum of $10,000.00, he was placed in the Auglaize-co. jail pending action of the grand jury.

OHIO WOMAN AT THE FRONT

Fighting Continues as Armistice Proposal Is Ignored

WARSAW—(By Associated Press.)—One American has been killed and another is missing in the battle between the Poles and Russian Bolsheviks in the region of Minsk, according to reports from the front, Alexander Uziwek of Chicago, an American Y. M. C. A. worker with the Polish army, was shot and killed by a Bolshevik while in a Polish uniform, while Captain Merion Cooper of Jacksonville, Fla., has been missing for four days, since starting an airplane reconnaissance.

LEADING U. S. SUPPLIES. Uziwek came to France and later was sent to Poland with General Halper's force. He was leading American supplies to be taken to the rear when killed.

Captain Cooper, a member of the Kosciuszko squadron, was recently mentioned as the successor of Major Cedric Fauntleroy as commander of the famous body of aviators.

Miss Alpheia Patterson of Cincinnati, Ohio, is with women soldiers in the region of Vilna, having charge of the distribution of Y. M. C. A. supplies. She came to Poland last fall with her brother, driving an automobile across Germany from France.

NO ARMISTICE REPLY SPA, Belgium—British officials here denied Friday morning that any reply had been received from the Russian soviet government relative to the British proposal for an armistice between Russia and Poland.

LITHUANIANS TO TAKE VILNA WARSAW—Polish governmental authorities have agreed with the Lithuanians for the occupation of Vilna by Lithuanian troops and this step will soon be taken, according to information received in military quarters.

The surrender of Vilna to the Lithuanians was conceded by the soviet government of Russia some time ago in negotiations between the two countries.

UKRAINIANS ADVANCE BERNE—The Russian Bolshevik offensive in the Ukraine, has come to a standstill, according to advances from Bucharest, which declare the counter offensive in the Ukrainian forces in making progress. The Ukrainian armies are being backed up by growing forces of volunteers forming in the rear of the Bolsheviks, and aided by the extensive uprising of peasants.

CONZALEZ TO FACE TRIAL AT ONCE

Alleged Leader of Latest Mexican Revolt in Prison

REVOLUTION PLAN FOUND

Scheme Provided for Ousting of Present Regime

MEXICO CITY — (By Associated Press.) — General Pablo Gonzalez, former candidate for the presidency and alleged leader of the abortive revolution in the state of Nuevo Leon, whose capture was reported Thursday, will be placed on trial immediately, according to official announcement.

General Gonzalez resisted arrest claiming those who sought to apprehend him did not carry warrants for their action. The house where he was lodging was watched all night, officials in the meantime securing a warrant to take him into custody. One version of the incident states he was found hiding in the cellar of the house.

FRIENDS SUSPECTED

Suspicion on the part of the government authorities was aroused by General Gonzalez' refusal to publicly denounce the uprising led by several military leaders in Nuevo Leon, the general claiming the rebellious were his personal friends. A dispatch to the Herald says that supporters of General Gonzalez protested against the government holding him in solitary confinement and claim this is in violation of the provisions of the constitution of 1907. Legal action which he can be protected is contemplated, it is understood.

A draft of a plan of revolution providing for the ousting of all government departments functioning at present was found in the pocket of General Carlos Garcia, chief of staff of the federal army, according to a message from General M. Perez Trevina, chief of operations in Nuevo Leon. To General P. Elias Calles, secretary of war, says the Herald. The project calls for the appointment of a new provisional president by congress when three-fourths of the states and Mexico City are controlled by the new regime.

Frequent reference is made to the "supreme chief of the revolution," but no name was mentioned in the draft, it is said. After declaring there can be no recognition of presidential authority, the alleged plan says the supreme chief will provisionally name governors of the various states occupied by "the liberal revolutionary army," and that these governors will name judicial officers and city councils, pending legal election.

CONZALEZ' PAST CAREER

SAN ANTONIO, Texas. — (By Associated Press.) — General Pablo Gonzalez, under arrest at the order of Provisional President De la Huerta on the ground that he was the "intellectual director" of an alleged disloyal movement, has been a prominent figure in Mexican military affairs for years. In the revolt against President Porfirio Diaz he took an active part and later was a military leader under Provisional President Francisco Madero. He joined General Carranza in the latter's revolt against President Victoriano Huerta.

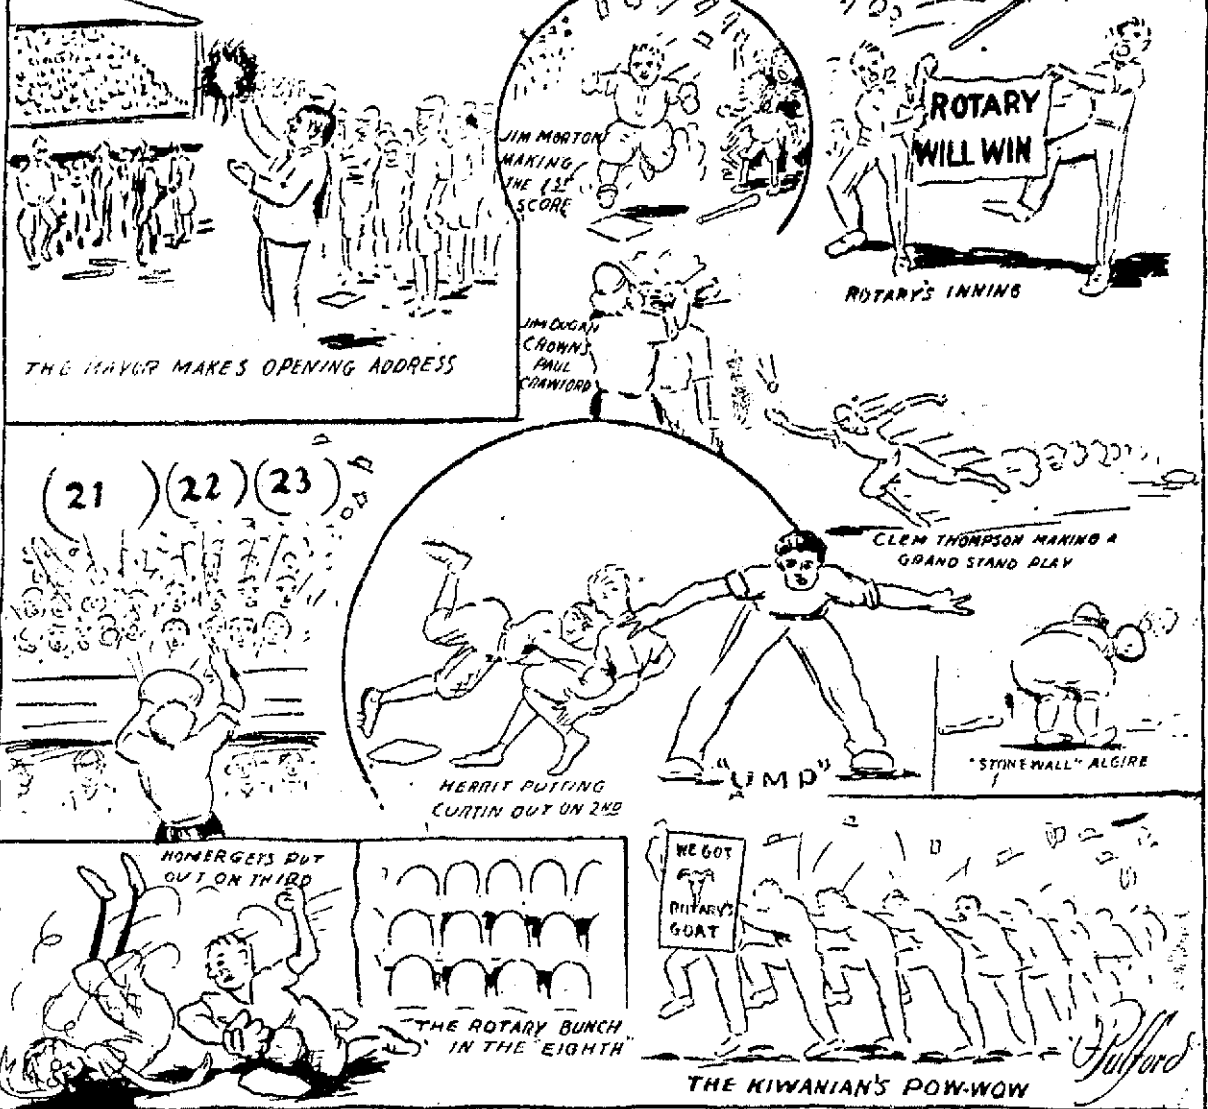

Several months ago he became an active candidate to succeed President Carranza, when the recent victorious revolt against President Carranza began gaining momentum. General Gonzalez threw his forces with those of General Alvaro Obregon. In the political maneuvering which followed the fall of the Carranza regime, General Gonzalez announced the withdrawal of his candidacy.

The present charges against the general, according to President De la Huerta's communication, are based upon his alleged activity in the military plans of several officers suspected of disloyalty. An attack upon his alleged activity in the military plans of several officers suspected of disloyalty was made Wednesday, and yesterday's unsuccessful efforts by General Carranza to capture General Gonzalez are mentioned in the statement which says:

"From sufficient data now in my possession I have reached the conclusion that the intellectual director of this movement is the general of division, Pablo Gonzalez."

ROTARY-KIWANIS BALL GAME

JULY 15TH

THEY called it a baseball game before they started, but soon after the Rotary and Kiwanis club teams opened their entertainment (?) at Murphy-st park yesterday afternoon the fellow who invented the great national pastime would have wept could he have seen the way it was played.

No typewriter could grind out a description of it and the Rotary club probably wouldn't care to have the history of that game written if it were possible. However, W. L. Fulford, artist at the Lima Photo Engraving plant, has endeavored to reproduce in sketches some of the "high lights" and has done very well. The cartoon above is by Mr. Fulford.

SUN SPOTS CAUSE OF TROUBLE

Scientists claim that spots on the sun are responsible for the "jazz" weather that we get on Sundays and holidays. Other scientists say the sun spots cause all the bad things that flourish in the summer, beginning with June, the month of roses and weddings, and ending with September, the month of memories and divorces.

So it is universally decreed that the sun spots make people the way they are.

From now on it will be easy for us to explain when we see supposedly intelligent people cavorting around on a tennis base over at 142 in the shadows, wearing a handkerchief around their brow to keep the headache from spreading.

Also, the sun spots explain why we go camping to be bit unmercifully by thousands of little insects; risk our anatomy on a roller coaster; do high diving stunts in knee deep water; bathe on the sand; wear lion taming shirts and neckties; take snapshots; send vacation postcards; and say, "Well, it is hot enough for you."

Scientists say that in the winter the sun spots are out of range and give us a chance to recuperate, and get our brain cells in regular working order.

Dr. Walter Simons, the German foreign minister, told his colleagues when they met to confer over the allied demands that this subject had not been mentioned during his conversation with Premiers Lloyd George and Miller and yesterday, when a verbal agreement was virtually reached. The Germans, it appears, were greatly annoyed to find it in the text of the terms handed them in the note of last night.

Chancellor Fehrenbach and Dr. Simons spent a part of this morning placing wreaths on the graves of German soldiers who had been buried at Spa.

BIDS FOR SIGNS

Streets Will Be Marked, Server McClain Announces

Bids are to be opened soon on street signs to be placed at all street intersections in the city. Service Director McClain announced Friday.

Four thousand dollars has been appropriated by the city council in the appropriation ordinance for the last half of the year for this purpose, he said and an attempt will be made to place signs over the entire city for this amount.

These signs, giving the name of the street or avenue, when placed on houses will be on the right, so that on any street motorists or others may always look to the right to see the name of the interesting streets. One sign will be placed on each corner, making a total of four at each street intersection. Where posts are used, according to the service director only two will be erected at each intersection, each post bearing two signs.

GASOLINE SPILLS

Two Tank Cars Overturn Near Ohio Steel Plant

Two hundred Limalites residing in the vicinity of the Ohio Steel plant, were out with wash buckets, buckets and other emergency receptacles gathering up a supply of 30-cent gasoline with which the gutters were flooded following the overturning of two tank cars on the B. and O. railway at 5 o'clock Thursday evening.

The accident occurred within a few hundred feet of the huge fuel oil tank of the Ohio Steel company, and but for the quick action of Master Mechanic B. D. Ferguson of the Ohio Steel might have resulted in a serious conflagration. Ferguson is reported to have put pumps into action immediately following the spill and succeeded in saving 6,500 gallons of the gasoline which had been dumped into surrounding depressions in the ground.

The scene was also cleared of spectators, a number of whom are said to have approached the lake of gasoline with lighted pipes and cigarettes.

"Wet" Goods Can't Be Taken Along on Picnics Now

Oh, for the good old picnic days! That's what a good many Limalites, especially the male population, are sighing about. Local revenue agents are the ones who are responsible for the "joyless" picnics. Revenue officers have called attention to that fact that under national prohibition laws it is unlawful to have liquor in one's possession outside of their own homes, and nothing can be transferred from homes without a permit of the government, necessitating a lot of red tape.

Officials in Revenue Collector Herr's office, Postoffice building, state that it is a sad but true fact that lodges, clubs, associations, and other groups of campers or picnickers cannot legally take with them or consume "spiritous, maltious, or vinous" liquid refreshment.

All Grocers May Charge Same Percentage of Profit

Fair-price list on groceries, issued recently by State Fair Price Commissioner John Pfeiffer applies equally to cash-and-carry groceries and those which make deliveries. J. B. Dugan, chairman of the Allen-co fair-price committee, said Friday.

This announcement was made following statements of fair-price committees in other cities of the state to the effect that cash-and-carry grocery stores must cut the percent of profit lower than the figures given in the official fair-price list.

"We have no authority to make any discrimination against the grocers who do not make deliveries unless further instructions are received from the state fair-price commissioner," Dugan said Friday.

GERMANY SCORNS GREAT IDEALS

Republicanism Dying Out in Reichstag, Report

CASTE AND CLASS HOLD SWAY

Equality and Democracy Defeated at Elections, Claim

BERLIN—"The spirit of republicanism is dying in Germany," Caste and class triumphed; the ideals of equality and democracy were defeated at Reichstag elections, Messrs. Barber, Baker, Banker and Booback went to the polls and registered their protest against patronizing the German Government after the principals and ideals of the United States Republic.

Germans vote for parties, not for candidates; the party's victory or defeat is purely a matter of the people's approval or disapproval of its platform.

The Reichstag election may be compared to three salesmen attempting to create a desire to sell their system of government to the voters. The governments on trial were the United States, English and Russian. The United States republicanism of democracy lost; the monarchy of England and class dictatorship of Russia won.

The reactionary National and People's parties, from whose rank were recruited the Kapp revolutionists, wish to see the return of a monarchy patterned on English lines. With it would come the British parliamentary system. The hierarchy of nobility would again be officially recognized, as in England. The Nationalists feel the need of a king in their German blood; the People's party is not actuated so much by sentimental notions of royalty as by the desire for a stable government to protect the "big interests." They condemn the British system's best answers this purpose.

The German democrats' ideas on government most closely of any German party approach those of an American. He is opposed to caste or class distinctions. He believes in a republican government. Many of the democratic leaders have made extended visits to America and have a keen appreciation of American politics. The other moderates in the old coalition, the Catholic Centrum, and the Majority Socialists have much in common with Americans in their point of view.

The Independent Socialists, with their programme of revolutionary socialism in every industry electing a supreme soviet, or "rat," their slogan "Dictatorship of the Proletariat" and "Hoch die Weltrevolution," are disciples of the Russians.

The Independent call democracy an antiquated notion, as much out of fashion as despotic kings, and preach class prejudice. Freedom is not included in their platform; they would have a dictatorship which would permit committees of workmen to regulate and order the lives of classes in matters now considered the individual's personal liberty.

Nearly five million Germans voted for class rule, if that class be the workmen, making the Independent Socialists the second strongest party in the Reichstag. According to the official figures, recount figures published by the Reichschancellor, the Independents secured 4,895,317 votes, compared with 2,517,299 in 1912. The Majority Socialists, who polled 11,509,048 a year ago, received only 5,614,456 votes.

The exponents of American theories of government, the democrats, who had 5,541,825 backers in 1912, found that their support had dwindled to 2,202,334 when the ballots were counted. The People's party more than doubled, with 3,445,623 in 1912; they now received 3,606,316. The royalistic National party also gained, with 3,121,479 a year ago, they now polled 3,736,778.

Certainly the inability of the old coalition to hold its own with the Entente or to greatly improve conditions at home has disgusted the voter and he has decided he will try something else. His choice has led him away from republicanism and democracy which he believes has failed. He now wants to entrust Germany to a monarchy or to Bolshevism.

GERMAN MIDDLE CLASS SUFFERS; SEEKS HELP

BERLIN—The slogan of Berlin charity workers is no longer "Help the poor," but "Help the middle class." The suffering of the "starving middle class," as compared with the laboring class, was brought to light by Spandau City Council's investigation of why the American children's relief workers were devoting most of their efforts to middle class neighborhood schools. Tabulations of the examinations of physicians co-operating with the relief workers showed that the largest percentage of undernourished children come from the families of the "white collar and white cuff" workers, school teachers, clerks, office help rather than from the families of laborers.

GERMANS BITTER AT PROFITEER

Believe Peak of Prices Has Been Reached

RUSH LAND CULTIVATION

Speculation in Food Develops Teuton "Schreiber"

BERLIN. — There is a growing hope in Germany that the peak of prices has been reached and that a slump may occur, which will make the problem of living less of an unsolvable puzzle.

Germany, from the car window, looks like a peaceful and prosperous land. Berlin itself presents fewer signs of individual poverty than one would expect.

Across Germany I saw more new construction under way than I have seen in England. The fields are closely cultivated, not so intensively as in Belgium, but still with an economy of space which is unknown to us in America. Farm and village buildings are strongly built on a larger scale than is general in Europe, and they have a spick and span air about them, even the pressure of war and the individual economic burdens that have to be borne since had not prevented owners from keeping up their property.

Out of an industrious and seemingly happy Belgium, where many signs of German destruction are still visible, the rapidly being wiped out. One rides into a Germany that to all outward appearances bears no touch of war. Not all the smokestacks are closed, but in a vast number of plants there are signs that the struggle back to productivity is being waged with some sort of success.

The fields which to inexperienced eyes seem promising are far below normal yield. I was told by American food representatives, "They say that Germany will be underfed for at least five years."

It is both the general scarcity of food and the cost of that which is obtainable, partly due to speculation by the "Schreibers," or profiteers, and partly due to the unfavorable exchange rate at which foodstuffs are imported, that is responsible for underfeeding.

There is much bitterness against the Schreiber, or profiteer. He is ostentatious about his well-being. He rides, awkwardly, in the bridge paths of the Tiergarten, brilliant in new riding clothes. An American official, also addicted to riding in the parks, tells of seeing one of the clumsy, newly-rich horsemen thrown. His horse fell upon him pinning one leg tight. A gardener crossed the path pushing a lawn mower. He stopped and gazed upon the spectacle of failure in glory.

"Ah," he said, "his horse has fallen on him."

Then he calmly trotted his moved onward. Help a Schreiber, pinned under his horse and possibly seriously injured? It never even entered the gardener's head. Obviously not.

To the popular mind he's the man most responsible for the present high prices which people are hoping have reached the toppling point. Against another sort I heard complaints.

"When peace was signed and the frontiers opened," said a woman, "hordes of foreigners rushed in. The mark was cheap. Outside money would buy things here cheaply. These people bought and bought. They bought everything they could at bargain prices to send out of the country for a profit. We had little enough here. Fewer things that we need had been manufactured during the war. But these foreigners bought and sent stuff away. That's why prices are so high for the rest of us."

Prices have vaulted upward rapidly in the last four or five months. Wages have advanced thru constant striking.

Striking the proposition roundly, the German is refusing to ask for help.

Occasionally Germany, as is well known, cited the Supreme Council her hardships, her real or assumed hopelessness, and makes her plea. But Germany is underfed, and the Hoover organization has a scheme operating to help in the feeding. They work on this idea. Send a postcard to friends or relatives in America asking for a food box. Americans are ready to help if asked. Many are doing it voluntarily when they know where help is needed. A similar scheme is working in Vienna. But the response in Germany has been a keen disappointment to the Berlin managers of the scheme. For all Germany they have done a food distributing business of about one-quarter the volume the Austrian organization has done in Vienna alone.

"They won't ask for help," said one of the American officials of the food distribution organization.

My own impressions were that the German wants to find some way out of his economic puzzle; he is keen on his new game of politics by and for the people; he is still nationalistic despite party and class differences; he isn't a revolutionist by nature; he'll avoid any more revolting unless stage-managed into it by clever and constant agitation, and that, above all, he wants to get back to work.

Posters in all banks preach work as the salvation of the Fatherland. A literal and somewhat clumsy translation of the poster runs thus: "Work is the source of all things. And we can work better than any other people."

Merchants and employers generally have seen the handwriting, however. A strike and an advance in prices cannot go on rotating in order forever. They have found that their window "bargains" bring customers no longer. Here and there one sees figures marked out and lower rates listed. This is a common enough sales dodge in the States, but I am told by people who have watched prices here that these are bonafide cuts in prices, the result of finding that the breaking point has been reached, that goods will not move from the shelves at the prevailing figures.

Moreover, thru various merchants' associations has gone the word that the limit in wage advances has been reached. New strikes or threatened strikes must not be met with a yield to a new wage scale. Presumably they see the inevitable crash in selling prices coming.

For the bargain hunting foreigner there is the "auslander's" tax. In some shops the prices are fixed and posted frankly on the price tags. But the foreigner pays an additional fifty, seventy-five or one hundred percent "auslander's" tax. In other shops the "auslander's" price is clearly written on the tags in black ink. Red ink "code" markings below give the true or German price.

The comparative state of well-being which one encounters is deceiving. For one thing, you see more of the men. In Germany it's the man first. On the train I saw a couple enter a compartment. There was

FINGERPRINTS ONLY SURE WAY OF IDENTIFICATION

NEW YORK.—In Norristown, Pa., the brave mother of baby Blakeley Coughlin, recently kidnapped, is keeping up her spirits and saying the believes her child will eventually be found.

But meanwhile, whenever a clue is discovered, whenever a baby whose description tallies with that of her lost son is found, Mrs. Coughlin must take a trip to some distant place, expensive and disappointing at its end.

Each day that passes is changing Blakeley's little features. In a few years if he were to be found it is doubtful if his own mother would recognize him.

There is only one means of identification that time doesn't change—the fingerprint.

If Blakeley's tiny finger-prints had been taken, cards with facsimiles of the whorls and grooves—different on every human being—could have been forwarded to authorities all over the country to compare with any baby thought to be the child kidnapped from Norristown.

The finger print has solved many crimes, traced many murderers.

Some interested investigators of the Elwell mystery claim that if the retina of Elwell's eyes had been photographed a picture of the murderer might have been found there. This theory was part of a statement with intent to prove Paris more expert in detecting crime than New York.

"The idea of taking pictures of dead men's eyes is an ingenious theme of detective stories," said Frederick Kahne, for many years attached to the Bureau of Criminal Identification of the Police Department in this city, who is a fingerprint expert.

"But the finger-print is the most positive means of identifying any person."

"Think of the endless trips and trouble in store for Mrs. Coughlin, whose little son has been stolen. No one seat. The husband sat down. The wife stood in the corridor. After I noted them and she was sitting down, the husband perched on her lap.

The new franchise with women in the Reichstag hasn't changed old time dictum that if there's money enough for one set of new clothes the man gets it, and if there's one bit of food better than another the bread-winner has first call.

It was in the one-time famous village of Potsdam under the shadows almost of the erstwhile imperial palace that I saw the women of Germany bearing the burden. Scores went bareheaded, with some sort of make-shift rough sandals or clogs; dozens shuffled along barefooted. They moved about the little shops not burdened, certainly, by the purchases they made. The shops were barren, poorly stocked, but the extent of the stock was of no consequence, the customers could only buy the bare necessities.

I cannot say regarding the situation in the country districts, but generally, in the cities, manual labor, skilled and unskilled, being organized, has made a partially successful fight to keep the income somewhere near abreast of the outgo necessary for a living of sorts. Women workers, clerks, men in many classes of office employment and the middle classes generally have suffered most.

mother could hear of any clue without looking it up. And each trip that is fruitless means sickening disappointment for her.

"If mothers had children fingerprinted how much trouble could be prevented."

I thought of a magazine story written a few years ago by a clever young woman in which she told of babies carelessly lost and mislaid in hospitals. Curious as it seems brand new miles of humanity with the same coloring of hair and eyes could be very easily mixed up. This writer recommended at that time, I recall, the finger-printing of babies immediately after birth to avoid heartbreaking mistakes. Imagine the mental turmoil of a young mother watching a child grow up, never knowing if the little one she sheltered were really her own.

Children change rapidly when growing from babyhood. Features and characteristics become more definite. But the tips of the fingers never change except to grow larger, but in expanding, the design of the lines remains unalterable.

"The idea of taking prints of fingers is associated in most minds with crime," continued Mr. Kahne. "But it should not be that of in that respect, in view of the help it can render in many other exigencies of life."

"For instance, take the case of a man making a will. He may name a relative for a beneficiary. But there may be two men of the same name in the family. After the signature of the will is dead, who can say to which relative he intended to will his fortune? A finger-print of the object of his benevolence would simplify proceedings greatly."

"Often, in severe accidents, people are so helplessly injured that their bodies cannot be claimed by relatives. In fires and other disasters if we had finger prints of victims many a person would not go to an unknown grave."

"In the theft of the famous painting of Mona Lisa from the Louvre, a finger print led to the discovery of the thief."

"Before that time the French did not want to use finger prints. That would mean the throwing out of the Bertillon system. The French are a very conservative people in such cases."

"Yet for a long time prints had been made secretly of the fingers of criminals, and were kept in the archives of the Paris police."

"Vincenzo Perugino, while he was working in the Louvre, stole the picture because, according to his own statements, he wanted his own country, Italy, to have possession of the great work of her son Leonardo da Vinci."

"But he left finger prints on the glass and frame that had enclosed Mona Lisa's famous smile. Later it was found those marks were identical with prints of Perugino's digits taken on a previous occasion, when he had been convicted of carrying firearms without a permit."

"In the Caruso gem robbery the strong box that contained the jewels should not have been touched after the loss was discovered. But every one about handled it and the traces of fingers must have been obliterated."

"In America a man is innocent till he can be proved guilty. Abroad the opposite is true."

STYLES CHANGING

Girls in Y. W. Classes Make Discovery, 'Tis Said

First it was high heels, dainty blouses or dresses, and the most elaborate coiffures.

Now it is low heels, middy blouses or something similar, and their put up in the quickest and simplest way.

For girls who are studying in the various classes being conducted by Miss Garford, Y. W. recreational director soon learn that in the "gym" the latest styles don't cut much figure. Wardrobes and coiffures are discarded for a time at least, and the girls devote themselves wholeheartedly to the job at hand.

Miss Garford has just returned from her months vacation, and owing to the number of calls which have been made in the past week, will open a tennis beginners class, if enough girls are enrolled within the next few days.

INCREASED PAY FOR ALL CITY EMPLOYEES FAVORED BY MAYOR

An increase in the salaries of all city employees, rather than only for the fire and police departments will be the second taken by Mayor Frank A. Burkhardt at a meeting of the safety and finance committee of the city council called for 7:30 Friday evening, for the purpose of considering salary increases it was indicated by the chief executive, Friday.

While the mayor declined to make any statement previous to the meeting Friday night, an interview with him lead to the belief that he will be against increasing the pay of members of the fire and police departments without making similar increases in the pay of other city employees.

The matter of reorganization of the police and fire departments will also be taken up at the meeting Friday night, he said.

TO MEET AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK — In an effort to find a remedy for the coal shortage representatives of bituminous operators and the executive committee of the Association of Railway executives planned to meet here late Wednesday, the coal operators committee asserted the coal shortage was due to inability to get cars at the mines. Officials declared that more than 28,000 new cars are to be built immediately and that an effort was being made to have the interstate commerce commission arrange for extended credits for poorer railroads to build 45,000 additional cars.

The railroad officials said it was impossible to get these cars into operation this winter. Quicker loading and unloading of cars was suggested by railroad men as a remedy for the situation.

ALFALFA MOST IMPORTANT FORAGE CROP IN CANADA

EDMONTON, Alta. — Alfalfa, which thirty years ago was regarded in the United States and Canada as an agricultural experiment, has become one of Western Canada's most important pasture and forage crops, and the acreage devoted to it has increased remarkably in recent years.

Manitoba has 3,671 acres in alfalfa in 1915 and 6,171 in 1919; Saskatchewan, 2,620 in 1915 and 11,528 in 1919; Alberta 817,027 in 1915 and 21,553 in 1919; and British Columbia, 12,100 in 1915 and 13,331 in 1919.

Crop reports show there will be a large increase in alfalfa acreage this year throughout the Canadian West. In British Columbia, it is said, will double its present acreage by 1921. The increase in alfalfa indicates a corresponding increase in live stock. Western Canada, which once grew wheat almost exclusively, is gradually changing into a diversified farming country.

RING LOST YEARS AGO IS FOUND

Woman's Suffering Lightened by Joy Over Its Return

Probably one of the happiest moments of Mrs. Mary Connolly's life occurred Wednesday night, when her son Clem Connolly entered her room at St. Rita's hospital, and slipped on his mother's finger the heavy gold wedding ring which she lost 31 years ago last March, and which was found untarnished and unscratched Wednesday night.

Thirty one years ago, on the day that her son, Patrick Connolly, was born, Mrs. Connolly slipped her heavy ring off, and left it on a nearby table. Two of the older boys, who were playing about the house, saw the ring, and took it with them to play in the yard, in the rear of their home, 1024 N. West-st.

The ring bounced out of the children's hands, and the every effort was made to locate the ring, and the yard raked for days. It could not be found. Three years later a small shed was erected in the yard. It was while her son Clem Connolly was tearing down the old shed Wednesday night, and taking up the debris, that he discovered the ring shining brightly, imbedded in the mud.

On the inside of the ring, the inscription of Mr. and Mrs. Connolly's wedding date, October 5, 1885, was as plainly visible as the day it was purchased. The ring was bought 35 years ago from Mr. Hale, who conducted the jewelry store here for many years.

Mrs. Connolly's children were overjoyed at finding the ring, and knowing that she had grieved over its loss they lost no time in hurrying to her bedside at St. Rita's hospital. Mrs. Connolly recently underwent a serious operation, but attending nurses say that her joy over the return of her wedding ring after so many years helped in a great measure to lighten her suffering.

Old Clocks Found By Lima Man

Wooden clocks that keep time have not W. H. Dew, 429 W. North-st., searching for an old clockmaker.

Dew, while visiting a short time ago in Tennessee, ran across two clocks made in 1825. He brought them back to Lima, assured that they were the best time keepers in the world.

Now he's looking for someone who can make them run.

They are made entirely of wood, with the exception of a governing cog. It is of brass. On the back of the clocks are pasted copies of the 1820 census and the 1825 postal rates. The census gives the population of the United States at that time as 9,625,724.

COX STOCK RISES

Straw Vote Shows Democrat Favorite in Home State

Governor James M. Cox's stock in Ohio is fast rising. The same is true in other states where indications of the general feeling is obtainable.

Coincident with the odds of 7 to 5 offered on Wall Street Thursday that Cox will carry Ohio in the November election, the straw vote taken yesterday by The Cincinnati Enquirer in a number of Ohio cities bear out the contention that Ohio is for the Democratic nominee.

A canvass among employees of an Akron rubber plant factory shows a total of 350 votes for the Governor and two for Senator Harding, a canvass in a glass works in Marion, Ind., shows 95 votes to five. Another canvass, in a Kenton plant, showed 134 to four, and a secret ballot taken in a Columbus printing plant showed 82 votes for the Governor out of 82 votes that were cast.

CORPORAL GOOD RECEIVES FIRST VICTORY MEDAL

Corporal Good, stationed at the Lima Army recruiting station, is the first Lima soldier to receive one of the Victory medals being issued by the government.

The medal came Friday morning. It is of bronze and carries bars designating length and importance of service.

Other service men in the county who are eligible to receive one of the medals may get one by applying thru the recruiting office. Discharge papers are all that are necessary, according to the recruiting officers, to prove claim to a medal. They will be mailed direct to the service men from Washington after the application is entered.

CHANCE FOR LOCATION
Vacation for Lima boys is being made easy by the United States Navy according to the officers stationed here for recruiting purposes. A six week's training course is being offered at Great Lakes and is open to boys ranging in age from 16 to 20. Detailed information on the plan may be had at the recruiting office in the postoffice.

FARMERS' OUTING

Big Perry-lp Gathering Will be Held in August

Perry-lp farmers, whose annual picnic for the last five years has gone on record near and far, for attendance and a big community meeting, will assemble again this year in August.

Instead of the usual contests in the production of vegetables, flowers and crops by the pupils of the township, a program will be given. A noted speaker will be secured to address the assembly.

The day will be designated as one in which all the farmers and their families will dispense with work and listen to a interesting program, enjoy a sociable time, discuss farm and crop conditions and partake of an old-fashioned country dinner.

Complete arrangements will be made at a meeting to be held at the township house next Monday evening. About 5,000 persons annually attend the picnic.

TOLEDO. — Suit for $828,200 was brought in federal court against the Woolson Spice Company of Toledo. The plaintiff is the Columbia Trust Company of New York, executor of the estate of the late Herman Silecken, sugar magnate.

The remains were shipped to her home at Bergholz, Ohio.

Three men saw the girl plunge into the river, but believed that she was going in bathing. Officials of the business college stated Friday that the girl had not failed in her studies. No reason can be assigned for her action.

COLUMBUS.—The supreme court Friday ordered the name of Harry Clay Smith, negro publisher of Cleveland, placed on the Republican ballot in the August primaries as a candidate for secretary of state.

The court directed that the ballots which are already printed without his name, be corrected by the use of stickers bearing his name. The decision was announced when Attorney General Price, representing Secretary of State Smith, advised the court that charges of "collusion" would not be pressed and that the secretary had decided to make no further pleading in the case.

Woman Surprises Her Friends

"After a spell of Typhoid Fever 7 years ago I began to suffer from indigestion and gas in my stomach and colic attacks. This gradually became so bad that my doctor advised an operation for gall stones. A friend advised me to try May's Wonderful Remedy which I did with splendid results. My friends were astonished at my rapid improvement. I have no more bloating and can eat anything I wish. It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Folly summer frocks are popular, but nothing could be more serviceable or permit of more charming variation than the separate skirt and blouse. For sports or more formal wear the silk or satin skirt is quite the thing. It is an excellent foundation for the new overblouses, silk sweaters, wash blouses or tuck-in waists. With gorgeous blouses it becomes a formal costume and with sweaters it is practical for town and country wear.

The well dressed woman wants at least one separate skirt of white in either a wash material or a novelty silk or satin and one fancy colored or plaid silk. These skirts make an excellent filling in costume which may be worn at busy odd times when a frock is not at hand.

There is a striking costume which is made of a separate skirt of white novelty satin and a very charming overblouse of old gold colored taffeta. The color combination is unusual and effective. The skirt is a plain model which will do long service and the blouse with its simple lines and trimmings of pleated self material will find many uses after the white skirts of summer are put away. To set off the costume a large picture hat of white organdy is worn. It is a dashing model with a low crown and a sharp upward turn to the brim at the back.

Rotary and Kiwanis Played Big League Ball Thursday When the Indians Copped Their Hard Fought Battle 23 to 9.

KIWANIS EMERGES VICTORIOUS FROM HEATED FRAY

BY THE SPORT EDITOR

THE big leagues haven't got a thing on Lima. Even if Babe Ruth did equal his home run record of last year, and even if the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns registered 31 hits in one eleven inning game, and also the Red and the Phillies found their opposing pitchers for exactly two dozen safe bingles in a nine inning contest all Thursday, they haven't got a thing on Lima.

No, they haven't, when the Rotary club and Kiwanis club can organize teams that can gather 10 hits a game and 32 runs in those nine innings and then on top of that, break the Lima error record by amassing 10, a full score, of bunged up plays in one day.

Not—Lima Leads.

But just the same it was some pastime. The Kiwanians took the honors despite a fifth inning rally by the Rotary outfit, and incidentally took the honors despite a fifth inning rally by the Rotary outfit, and incidentally took the lead over their rival civic organization, by making the first game of the series between the two clubs, decidedly theirs.

The score—yes, it was as good a score as any major league club can boast of this year—23 to 9 was the final count. And it took some counting to keep track of it.

If took Stonecker of the Kiwanians to break the ice in the third inning. He connected with the pill for a neat two base hit that drove Jimmy Morton across the plate puffing like a Lima locomotive.

The two baggers sent the Indian rooters into ecstasy, and the Indian players into a riot.

Joe Federman, the Boston store hater had kept every Rotary player who had faced him, with the exception of one, from seeing first until the fourth frame, so it was up to the rest of the team to get the runs. They did.

But things grew mighty warm in the fifth when Federman began to tire and walked umpfatty four men in a row. The Cogs found some of his deliveries, however, and chased him from the mound when the runs began pouring across the plate.

Clyde Myers took charge of the hurrying from then on, and the Cogs didn't have a chance.

Two two-baggers registered by Lindesmith and Bagby emptied the bases, and it looked like the Rotarians were coming back. But Mayor Burkhardt had attempted to present them with a crepe that they had refused to take, so the Kiwanians proceeded to crown them with it, in numbers.

The rally was cut short after only eight runners were registered. The Kiwanians figured that 19 was enough to remain out of danger, so they rested for the next three innings and incidentally forced the Cogs to rest with them.

But the ninth called them into action again. They were out for blood. Four tallies were rung up by the Kiwanians in that frame, and when the final out was called on the other side of the competition, there wasn't much chance for argument. The Rotarians had failed to make good their comeback. It has been just a little spirit that had gone for naught.

And the Kiwanians were unanimously declared the winners by both Peat and Repeat. The Cook boys who braved the battle and rendered decisions that would make Bill Klem blush with envy.

But ere we forget, the Box Score, compiled thru arduous labor that was rivaled only by the work of the umpires:

For Money Marbles or Chalk

Satisfactory that their first battle was not sufficient to prove that the Kiwanians were better than they at the art of playing baseball, and having witnessed the contest between the Indians and the Rotarians at the Murphy street diamond, Thursday, the Doctors have once more announced that they are after the Kiwanis team for a game of baseball.

Dr. V. H. Hay, who heads the medic pastimers declares that his team is ready to meet the boasting Kiwanians, should they be victorious in this series with the Rotary club.

And if the Kiwanians aren't successful, and if Rotary takes the honors, the doctors want to play, whoever wins, for the championship of the three clubs.

TILDEN FIRST TO GRASP HONORS

BY JACK VELOCK

NEW YORK — The success of the American Davis Cup team members in the London and Wimbledon tournaments, especially that of William T. Tilden, 2d, the tall Philadelphia star, was highly gratifying to devotees of the net game on this side of the water.

Tilden's great showing in winning the British singles title from Gerald Patterson, a feat that gives the Philadelphia player leeway to lay claim to the world's singles championship if he so desires, was inspiring.

The American national indoor singles champion was never in such fine fettle as he is this season, and it goes without saying that he will be a prime favorite to wrest the National singles title from William M. Johnston and a classic field of opponents when the annual tournament is held at Forest Hills in the Fall.

The superb game played by Tilden was altogether impressive. Nothing approaching it was ever witnessed before on English courts, according to British experts themselves, many of whom have "covered" all the important tennis events on the other side of the pond for a decade or more.

Tilden is a player of unusual ability. He is a finished star in every department of the game, but his forte is his great speed both in service and returns. Several great matches in which he has participated in the past were recalled as a result of his recent victory over Patterson.

In the 1918 Nationals Tilden was defeated in the finals by R. L. Murray, of Niagara Falls. The Philadelphia played thru the last three days of that tournament with a leg so badly infected that he was forced to go to a hospital after the tourney was completed. Yet those who saw him will never forget the wonderful grit and really magnificent tennis he displayed in his efforts to stave off the inevitable.

Another match was in the Nationals last August when he lost the final round to William M. Johnston, after conquering R. Norris Williams, 2d, Norman E. Brookes, the veteran Australian, and Ichiya Kumagae, the Japanese star, before taking on Johnston.

ROOT MATCHED WITH JOHNNY KILBANE

CLEVELAND. — Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion and Artie Root, Cleveland, will meet in a 16-round fight here, July 28.

Root, who has been after a match with Kilbane for a long time, is training faithfully, in the hope of scoring a knockout.

Cal Delaney, Cleveland lightweight will meet Willie Beechner, Cleveland, over the same distance in the semi-final. Blockie Richards, sensational Dayton featherweight, will meet Jimmie Kane, New York, in a 10-round go.

TENNIS IN FINALS

CHICAGO—Roland Roberts, of San Francisco, will play Ralph Burdick, of Chicago, and R. Lindley Murray of Niagara Falls will play Alexander Squire, of Chicago, in matches of the tenth annual national clay court tennis championship tournament Friday afternoon, with the two survivors going into the final round. Two other contestants, Vincent Richards, of New York, and Lucien Williams, of Chicago, entered the semi-finals as the result of victories yesterday.

Youngest Yank In World War Is Mustered Out

Raymond Burleigh.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—(Special)—The youngest soldier in the American army during the World war has been mustered out. He is Raymond Burleigh, who shortly before his twelfth birthday enlisted in the army under the name of Fred De Reaux in St. Joseph.

Raymond enlisted in June, 1917, in Kansas City, giving his age to the recruiting officers as twenty years, eleven months. His abnormal development created no suspicion, and soon afterward he went across as a chauffeur. He drove the private cars of generals, colonels, etc., transported ammunition and supplies and got so used to the roar of bullets and the noise of big guns that they sounded "like a swarm of mosquitoes working in a thunderstorm."

Raymond ever since a "child" had been interested in mechanics, and when he was assigned as chauffeur to the aviation section he stuck around until finally an aviator took him for a spin thru the air. That was just enough to whet his appetite and one bright morning the pilot of a certain machine turned about to see his steedavoring thru the air with a perilous swing.

"What the h—!" declared the aviator wonderingly.

But it was only Raymond, who having "copped" two machine guns, had set out to win the war.

"They told me when I got back that I looped the loop three times, but if I did I didn't know anything about it," he said. For this venture he was sentenced to six months in the front line trenches. Which was the next best thing to having a plane of his own.

He fought at Chateau Thierry, where he inhaled enough German gas to put him in the hospital several weeks, during which time he lost use of his voice.

On February 25, 1920, he was returned to this country and released, following a personal letter written by General Pershing to the secretary of war. On July 6 he got his final papers at Philadelphia.

"Flu" Left This Man a Nervous Run Down Wreck

Lima railroad man was weak, nervous, had no appetite, stomach out of order.

Now praises the new remedy, Drecto, for splendid relief.

"I had the 'Flu' last year, and it left me in a bad condition, my nerves were on edge; I couldn't sleep; had no appetite; bowels badly constipated, and in a general debilitated state," says Mr. Thos. Bragg of 131 South Jackson Street, Lima, O., a well known Pennsylvania Railroad mail and baggage man.

"My stomach troubled me greatly, and I seldom could eat breakfast; had a bad disagreeable taste in my mouth; my kidneys pained me all the time; had a dull, aching feeling directly over them, and my limbs also ached. My nerves went to pieces so that what sleep I got was fitful, and gave me little rest.

"I decided to try Drecto, as it was spoken of so highly here at home, and it has surely done me a world of good. Really I am surprised myself at the improvement. My pains are gone; I sleep well; bowels act regular; and taste in my mouth gone, and breath sweet. I feel like doing more work than ever before. Drecto is great and I heartily recommend it to everyone."

The good old time root and herb remedies are the best for the stomach, liver, kidneys, bladder, and the blood. Drecto is made from twelve different roots and herbs, which act on the vital organs promptly, and in a pleasant manner.

All good druggists now sell Drecto and it is highly recommended in Lima by Baldwin's Central Drug Store, Corner Main and High-sts.

G. O. P. NEWS FIRST IN FOE CAMP

Frisco Delegates, Homeward Bound, Rush on Newsie

BRINGS DEMOCRATIC LAUGH

Travelers Experience Heat Registering at 124 Degrees

(BY J. W. FISHER)

EL PASO, Texas—Twenty hours out from Los Angeles, Calif., after passing over probably the worst part of southern California, a contingent of delegates returning to their homes in Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and other southern states from the Democratic convention at San Francisco, were afforded the opportunity of getting in touch with civilization when a vociferous lunged newsie at Tucson, Arizona, with papers containing the Associated Press dispatches, awakened the late sleepers in Pullman berths as he shrilled alongside the train.

The news was of July 8th, but that didn't matter; it was new to the news-hungry passengers. The available paper was the Tucson Citizen, Republican in politics and a laugh was created among the returning delegates when it was noted that the leading political article concerned a conference between Harding and Coolidge, the Republican nominees, on "the necessity of the return of the country to constitutional government." That is to be the Republican campaign issue and when it is considered that full-headed United States Senators, by their opposition to the administration, prevented that very thing and are still preventing it—well, it is to laugh.

As the train is only a few hours away from El Paso and we are skirting the order of old Mexico, the turbulent southern republic, everyone is considerably interested in a published statement that Francisco Villa, the elusive Mexican outlaw, offers in his peace proposal to the Mexican Government, to put down outlaws in the state of Chihuahua and make it the safest place in the country. He also agrees to help crush uprisings in other states. Villa would like to leave off the turbulent life he has been leading, he says, and return to private life after order has been restored in Mexico.

Believing that the San Joaquin valley in California was the hottest place on earth, the writer had his conclusion rudely shocked yesterday (July 9) in southern California and on the Yuma, Arizona, desert. At Niland, the gateway to the famed Imperial valley, over the Southern Pacific, the mercury mounted to 124 degrees in the shade at mid-afternoon. During the night the hot winds proved a veritable torment for the travelers. More than one protest from the heat occurred on the train. The best idea of irrigation projects afforded anywhere along the route was at Yuma, Arizona, on the Colorado river where the very life of everything depends upon water. It is husbanded there as fuel in midwinter in Lima. Hotels in Yuma offer free meals every day in the year that the sun doesn't shine and the newspaper offers to give away their papers under the same conditions.

One of the most interesting sights witnessed yesterday was the Salton Sea in southern California, many miles in length and width, between two ranges of hills and skirted its length by railroads. A sand storm was encountered on the desert, the fine sand sweeping in the same direction as the moving train. Having the appearance of an Ohio midwinter blizzard, the fine sand driven constantly by the wind, gradually wears away telegraph poles, as water cuts its way thru sandstone. At various places poles were down. Early morning risers saw a wedding party at Benson, in Arizona, the bride in white, with flowing veil. They were attended by two couples, all wearing white shoes and the men wearing wide rim hats. They were Mexicans and trudged across the sands to the little church in the center of the village, lying in the bleak San Pedro valley. If that part of Arizona traversed on this journey is a sample of the territory generally, it is difficult to conceive how human beings have the hardihood to make their homes there. Adobe shacks are the principal habitations at points where people are to be seen, at intervals of many miles and for the most part they are Mexicans. At Niland, below the level of the sea, the hearing of passengers was affected. The rumble of the train was reduced to a soft and soothing purr.

At Bowie, Arizona, on the old Apache trail, one enthusiastic passenger insisted that he wouldn't be satisfied unless he saw the trail. And he did. It was pointed out to the passengers by a trainman. Crossing the mirage plain at Cochise, the travelers imagined they saw things—beautiful rivers, great buildings, spires of churches, etc. that existed only in the mind's eye. Crossing the southwest corner of New Mexico, striking Lordsburg and Deming, very little life was noticed save the Mexicans. The only sign of wild life on the desert and mesa since leaving Los Angeles was a diminutive rabbit. The train is due in El Paso at 11 a. m., where those of the travelers who will stop over, expect to procure passports and visit Mexico, crossing the international bridge.

A passenger on this train is Colonel John I. Martin, of St. Louis, Missouri, agent at arms of the Democratic convention, returning to his home. Colonel Martin was one of the business men in the convention. He is most interesting as a conversationalist and is bubbling over with enthusiasm for the Democratic ticket to the extent that he delivered several addresses in California in behalf of Cox and Roosevelt before leaving that state. An early riser, Saturday, Colonel Martin presumped the smoking compartment and spent an hour or two before breakfast, rehearsing speeches he expects to deliver later in his home state and elsewhere. His voice was a bit husky from "eating" too much sand on the desert when a sand storm was encountered, but he did very well at that. Colonel Martin carries a heavy gold watch and chain, presented to him by the people of St. Louis and by the Democratic national committee. He has been elected for life as sergeant at arms of the Democratic national convention. He has served in that capacity for many years.

Several thousand feet above sea level the train passed over the continental divide Saturday and began the journey down the eastern slope to El Paso. At Tucson is to be seen the old San Xavier Mission, an historic structure, while near Yuma the attention of the travelers was directed to giant cactus trees, known as Sahuaro (pronounced Sa-whar-o). The chocolate mountains, the Yuma valley, the Casa Grande ruins, the Catalina mountains, lava beds, Kilburn sink and other points of interest absorb the heat tormented travelers and assist in getting their minds off the torrid conditions. A considerable portion of the best scenery was traversed at night.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Head of Texas, Ark., returning home from the Frisco convention, are typical of the progressive citizenship of the southwest. Mr. Head held a proxy as national committeeman from Arkansas, as a member of the committee is elected by popular vote in the primary in Arkansas and the election will not be held until August. Mrs. Head was chosen at Frisco as committee woman from Arkansas. There are so few Republicans in Arkansas that it isn't often that they put up a ticket. The big political battle is the primary election for Democratic candidates. Nomination of the Democratic ticket is equivalent to election. All voters, men and women, in Arkansas, are required to pay a poll tax. The negro is not disfranchised in Arkansas, Mr. Head explained, but stated for the most part they neglect or refuse to pay the poll tax, hence those who do not are not permitted to vote.

Train is just departing from Lordsburg a few miles west of the continental divide, where the station sign board affords the information that the town is 4243 feet above sea level. From Niland, in California, the train has been on the up grade. Between Separ and Gage, New Mexico, the down grade journey to El Paso, Texas, begins. These little towns in the southwest essay all the advanced conveniences of the east, despite the manifold handicaps. There are just enough Americans in the towns to give them an American air, and provide the stimulus for progress. The Mexicans are content with adobe shacks of low habitations made of old railroad ties, covered with mud. Even the roofs are of mud.

One of the sights yesterday that impressed the easterners was the appearance of snow capped mountains when the train was passing thru territory far below the level of the sea and the mercury more than 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Despite the high altitude on the stage of the journey, the heat is again excessive.

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common, liquid ammonia from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

Yes, you may find itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be shiny, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

ERIE, Pa., (By United Press)—The airplane flight from New York to Nome, Alaska, will not be resumed until Saturday, it was announced here Friday. Three of the airplanes arrived here late Thursday and the fourth, piloted by Captain St. Clair Street, was forced down near Scranton by a heavy fog.

The pilots had planned to continue to Grand Rapids Friday, but due to inability of Captain Street to reach here before late in the afternoon, it was decided to postpone the attempt on the second leg of the long flight until Saturday.

PENNSY ENGINES TO "SOFT PEDAL" WHISTLES PASSING THRU LIMA

Notice sent out to all Pennsylvania engineers by P. E. Wilmore, Mansfield, read foreman of engines, instructs them to reduce the amount of whistling to an absolute minimum while passing thru Lima. This notice was sent out, according to Mayor Burkhardt, following numerous complaints of Lima residents of excessive whistling on the Pennsylvania, contrary to a city ordinance.

The matter of blocking street crossings in this city for an unnecessary length of time is also under investigation by officials of the Pennsylvania, Burkhardt said.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends for their kindness during the sickness and death of our husband and father, Wilson Stuart McDonel. Also thank neighbors, friends, employees of the Ohio Electric and Moose for their liberal donations.

LIMA GETS HALF AUTO TAXES

Amount For 1920 Will Probably Reach $10,000

The city of Lima will receive 50 per cent of all automobile taxes collected in the city in 1920.

City Auditor David L. Rupert made this announcement Friday following a conference with the secretary of state at Columbus Thursday. According to the records in the office of the state registrar of automobiles, Rupert said, $19,432.46 has been collected from automobile owners of Lima up to the present time and it is estimated the figure will reach $20,000 before the end of the year. This will mean $10,000 for the city treasury.

Averages for the entire state, according to officials of the registrar's office show that the tax averages $10 per motor vehicle. According to these figures Lima has approximately 2,000 motor vehicles, including trucks and motorcycles.

MEN AND MATTERS

Fred Huber, Mercer-co, democratic candidate for the nomination for state senator from the 32nd District, was in Lima Friday. He says farmers in his locality have finished their hay harvest and wheat cutting has been finished. Threshermen in Mercer-co are asking 10 cents a bushel for threshing, he says, the highest price ever asked.

The Stein Brothers Grocery Co. will open a branch store at Elm and Nye-sts tomorrow. The grocery department will be in charge of Joseph Stein and the meat department in charge of J. A. Luman. The branch will be conducted along the same lines as the main store, W. High-st.

WILL REMAIN HERE

Mrs. Josephine McKim, Oil City, Pa., who came to Lima to attend the funeral of Mrs. C. C. Klumph, will remain for a few days. W. E. Klumph, Ranger, Texas, has returned to his home and Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Brown have gone back to Youngstown.

OHIO CITY MAY WIN

Cox Favors Columbus as Campaign Headquarters

COLUMBUS.—(By United Press).—Governor Cox Friday informed members of the local chamber of commerce that he will recommend the Ohio state capital as the national headquarters of the Democratic campaign. The selection, however, will be in the hands of the national committee, he added.

CITY BONDS DELIVERED.

City Auditor David L. Rupert delivered $101,500 worth of street improvement bonds, purchased recently by the state industrial commission, to the state treasurer Thursday. The cost of sending these bonds by express, according to the auditor is 25 cents per thousand or a total of $25. By delivering them in person he said the delivery was made at one third of this cost to the city.

High Interest Rates

Never in the country's history have there been so many securities bearing high rates of interest offered to the public. And they are all "guaranteed to be absolutely sound."

The question of importance to the investor is, of what value is the so-called "guarantee"? What is known of the guarantors or of the business behind the securities? Promises of safety and high interest rates are easily made but not always fulfilled.

Invest your money at home where you know with whom you are dealing, where you will receive a reasonable rate of interest and where the money is used to build up your own community.

You will find no better place than The Allen County Savings and Loan Company, at the corner of Market and Elizabeth Streets in the Savings Building.

You get five per cent interest and one hundred per cent safety. Their assets July first were two million three hundred thousand dollars with a surplus of seventy-one thousand four hundred dollars.

JUDITH of BLUE LAKE RANCH

By JACKSON GREGORY

BURNING MEMORY

As June had slipped by, so did July and August. On Blue Lake ranch life flowed smoothly. Men were too busy with each day's work to sit into the nights prophesying trouble ahead. And in truth it seemed that if Bayne Trevors had ever actively opposed the success of the Sanford venture he had by now accepted the role of an inactive forced upon him by circumstance. He was with the Western Lumber Company, as director and district superintendent, seemingly giving all his dynamic force to the legitimate affairs of the company.

But there were those who placed no faith in the obvious. Bud Lee kept in touch with Rocky Bend and learned that Quinlan had not come back; that no one knew where he had gone. Carson's man, Shorty, was sought by Emmet Sawyer and his disappearance was like that of a prickled bubble; it seemed that Shorty had no actual physical existence or that, if he had, he had taken it into some other corner of the world. Quinlan's friends had also gone from Rocky Bend, like Quinlan leaving behind them no sign to show where they had gone.

Knowing Quinlan as he did, and having his own conception of the character of Bayne Trevors, Bud Lee said to himself that too great a quiet protestant strike to come. If Quinlan was the man to carry in his breast the hate that drove him to the murder of Judith's father, then he was the man to remember the humiliation he suffered at Lee's hands, to remember and to strike back when the time was ripe.

Judith had heard of the night in Rocky Bend, a lurid and wonderfully distorted account from Mrs. Simpson, who had received it in a letter from her daughter.

"So that was what Bud Lee did after he kissed me!" mused Judith. She sent immediately for Carson and forced from him the full story. Dismissing Carson, she remained for a long while alone. Only one remark had she made to the cattle foreman, and that a little aside from the issue occupying his mind:

"Keep your weather eye open for what's in the wind," she told him briefly. "Behind Quinlan is Trevors, and the year isn't over yet."

The ranch was shocked to its utmost capacity. Carson had bought another herd of cattle; Lee had added to his string of horses. The dry season was on them, herds were moved higher up the slopes into the fresh pastures. Carson, converted now to the silos, was a man with one idea and that idea ensilage. Again the alfalfa acreage was extended, so that each head of cattle might have its daily auxiliary fodder. Carson now agreed with Judith in the matter of holding back sales for the high prices which would come at the heels of the lean months.

The man Donley, who had brought to the ranch the pigeons carrying cholera, was tried in Rocky Bend. The evidence, tho' circumstantial, was strong against him, and the prosecution was pushed hard. But it was little surprise to any one at the ranch when the trial resulted in a hung jury. The ablest lawyer in the county had defended Donley and finally, late in August, secured his acquittal. The man himself did not have ten dollars in the world; the attorney taking his case was a high-priced lawyer. Obviously, to Judith Sanford at least, Bayne Trevors was standing back of every play his hirelings made.

Doc Tripp had the hog-cholera in hand. And every day, out with the live stock whose well being was his responsibility, he worked as he had never worked before, watchful, eager, suspicious.

"If they'll drop cholera down on us out of the blue sky," he snapped, "I'd like to know what they won't try."

For the first few days following the dance Bud Lee had within his soul room but for one emotion: He had held Judith in his arms. He had set his lips on hers. He went hot and cold with the remembrance. Being a man, he made his man-suppositions of the emotions that rankled in her breast. He imagined her contempt of a man who by his strength had forced her lips to wed his; he pictured her scorn, her growing hatred. He told himself that he should go, rid the ranch of his presence, take his departure without a word with her. For, already, he had fitted her into his theory of the perfect woman, lifting her high above himself and above the human world. It was a continued insult for him to remain here.

But, after careful thought, he remembered what Judith had already told him: he was one of the men whom she could trust to do her work for her, one of the men she most needed, a man whom she would need sorely if Bayne Trevors were lying quiet now but to strike harder, unexpectedly, later.

Judith did not dismiss him, as at first he had been sure she would. So he stayed on, remaining away from the ranch headquarters, sleeping when he could in the cabin above the lake, spending his days with his horses, avoiding her but keeping her personality in his soul, her interest in his heart. When the winter had passed, when she had made her sales and had the money in hand for the payments upon the mortgages, then he would go. Whereat, no doubt, the high gods smiled.

As time passed, there came about a subtle change in the attitude of the outfit toward Pollock Hampton, whom they had been at the beginning prone to accept as a "dilly guy." It began to appear that under his lightness there was often a steady purpose; that if he didn't know everything about a ranch, he was learning fast; that in his outspoken admiration of things rough and manly and primal there were certain lasting qualities. Whereas formerly his being thrown from a spirited mount was almost a daily occurrence, now he rode rather well. With tanned face and hard hands, he was, as Carson put it, "growing up."

He came to Judith one day serious-faced, thoughtful-eyed.

"Look here, Judith," he began abruptly, "I'm no outsider just looking on at this game. You're the chief owner and the boss and I'm not kicking at that any longer. You'd raised you to this sort of thing and you have a way of getting by with it. But on the other hand, I'm part owner and you've got to consider me."

Judith smiled at him.

"What now, Pollock?" she asked. "You're the boss," he repeated stoutly. "But I've got a right to be next in authority. Under you, you know. Why, by cripes, I go around feeling as if I had to take orders from Carson or Tripp or any other of the foremen!"

"By cripes is good!" laughed Judith. "Go ahead." "That's all," he insisted. "You can tell them, when you get a chance that I am your little old right-hand man. Suppose," he suggested vaguely, "that you left the ranch a day or so. Or even longer, some time. There's got to be some one here who is the head when there is need for it."

Judith mirthfully acquiesced. Hampton's interest was sufficiently heavy for him to be entitled to some consideration. Besides, she had come to experience a liking for the boy and had seen in him the change for the better which his new life was working in him. Further, she meant to make it her business that she did not leave the ranch for a day or so or an hour or so, when she should be there. Consequently, within a week Pollock Hampton was known humorously from one end to the other of the big ranch as the Fore-man-at-Large.

NOT REALLY "SICK"—BUT WEAK AND TREMBLING WITH FEAR FROM A NERVOUS RUN-DOWN CONDITION

Many a Woman Imagines Herself Afflicted with All Sorts of Ailments When the True Cause of Her Trouble May be Due Simply to a Lack of Nature's Life-Giving Elements Which Science Has Found to be Absolutely Necessary for

RADIANT HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Physician Explains What Women Need to Make Them Well and Strong—Shows How to Tell.

Former Health Commissioner
JOHN J. RUDOLPH, M. D.
Late of The New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital and Columbia Hospital of New York and a Graduate of the University of Baltimore.

Fretting and worrying over supposed ailments, restless at night and nervous in the daytime, thousands of women are seized with fear at the thought of going to a physician and yet go on and on hoping against hope that they will be better while in reality they are becoming run-down. A condition becomes steadily worse. These are the women who are the first to show by their sallow complexions, wrinkled faces, hollow cheeks, stooping shoulders and dragging steps that signs of age are rapidly destroying their health, beauty and happiness. If such women could only summon the courage to visit a modern day physician well versed in the latest discoveries of medical science, he would in many cases probably tell them that the true cause of their trouble lay simply in the lack of a nourishing health-building substance called vitamins, which is now lacking in most of the foods we eat every day. Nature supplies these wonderful life-giving vitamins in certain raw vegetables and grains, but owing to present methods of preparation and cooking they are lost before the foods reach our tables. As a result the body often fails to get the nourishment it requires for keeping up a fullness of strength and vitality, building firm flesh and tissue or giving clearness and beauty to the skin. But with the introduction of Vitamon, a concentrated form of vitamins combined with other health-giving elements, there is no reason why any woman should give up hope of being just as healthy, beautiful and well-proportioned as Nature intended. In my own practice I have seen such amazing changes take place after a short course of Vitamon that I feel no hesitancy in strongly recommending it to any woman who is weak, run-down, nervous, fearful or lacking in the attractiveness and charm which come from perfect health.

"Such surprising results are often produced in only a week or ten days that I am convinced there is absolutely no tonic or preparation on the market to which Vitamon can be compared. So no matter what you have used in the past or how disappointed you have been at not regaining a full measure of health and strength, I strongly urge you to try Vitamon under the absolute guarantee that it will more than satisfy you or the small purchase price you pay your druggist will be promptly refunded.

NOTE: An agreement has been reached whereby Vitamon is supplied at a price low enough to be within the reach of all, and completely satisfactory results are guaranteed or money will be promptly refunded. Vitamon may now be obtained in this city from all leading druggists such as Mykrantz, Red Cross, Hutter's and others.

SPECIAL GUARANTEE

If after using Vitamon you are not entirely satisfied with the results and are not convinced that it has been worth to you far more than you paid for it—it will cost you absolutely nothing. You are to be the sole judge.
